Dearest,

Aug 5, 1937

I got your letter this morning and I was so glad to hear from you so soon. It sure is nice to get a letter every other day, only I wish it were every day. I were seeing you

Sister, dear, if I see an ad in the paper that looks pretty good and you're supposed to write, would you want me to answer for you?

How is your sister and your niece? Did they enjoy the candy? How long do they expect to stay? Gee I sure would like to see them.

I'm sitting out here on the back porch watching the kids play. It's very warm but I don't mind that.

Gosh, honey, I don't wish you were here any more than you wish it. Every time I go out with someone else I wish it were you. Last night I went out with some fellow and honestly he is just crazy about me. But honey all the time I was with him I kept wishing it were you. Well maybe me. Because she told me that she was broad minded, I could tell her the truth but I told her that I slept with Ann. You sh<sup>is</sup> broad minded I think a little too broad minded. What do you think?

Did you see Jim? What did he say? I mean is he coming in? If so, when? I have a date for Sat nite but I could very easily break it.

So that job will only last about 2 weeks longer. Now about that job in the Art Building don't you think you could get in there? Don't sacrifice everything to come out here, honey, because you might not even find anything that will suit you. But I guess there is nothing like trying.

Gosh, honey, thank you for those stamps they sure do come in handy, you don't know how much those stamps run you into and correspondence really does run you into money in a few weeks you will be here. Boy and don't tell me I won't love that. Maybe by that time I'll be working too. and we can start saving together you know, it seems so funny to me but of all the fellows I know, I mean Jewish fellows that I had to fall for you. Will I guess that's just the way things go, I guess that's fate.

I haven't been out since that day to look for a job. Because you see Yella has been out all day I haven't had a chance to go out.

Ann moved again. She is living in a boarding house now. She had a housekeeping room. It's not so hot but it's better than the other one. at least here she can have visitors.

I saw my cousin Becky and she said to me "Who did you spend the night with Ann or Jack?" and so I had to explain the circumstances to her. But I don't think she believed Especially when you have such an extensive correspondence as I have. I bet I correspond with half of Elyria.

Shall I send you some more want ads? you tell me when and I shall send them to your sister, dear, I guess I'll hear from you quicker than I will from Jim so will you ask him for <sup>pictures</sup> them for me and send them to me?

Well dear it is almost supper time so I shall have to close with only a million kisses this time. I haven't time for more.

yours,

Evelyn

P.S. I love you, darling, very, very much.
